The Easter Story

Entry Into Jerusalem

And when they drew nigh unto Jerusalem, and were come to Bethphage, unto the mount of Olives, then sent Jesus two disciples, saying unto them, Go into the village over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass tied, and a colt with her: loose them, and bring them unto me. And if any man say ought unto you, ye shall say, The Lord hath need of them; and straightway he will send them.

All this was done, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, saying, Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass. And the disciples went, and did as Jesus commanded them, And brought the ass, and the colt, and put on them their clothes, and they set him thereon.

And a very great multitude spread their garments in the way; others cut down branches from the trees, and strawed them in the way. And the multitudes that went before, and that followed, cried, saying Hosanna to the Son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest. And when he was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, Who is this? And the multitude said, This is Jesus the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee.

On Growing Young

It is as possible to grow young as it is to grow old. This is the distinctive privilege of the human being, a privilege shared by no other living creature. Ability to grow young is the crowning glory of man.

Growing young is an art, not an artifice. The art is not to be acquired in beauty parlors, barber shops, or baths; not in chemical laboratories or gymnasiums, but in the secret and sacred place where the inner springs of life are fed.

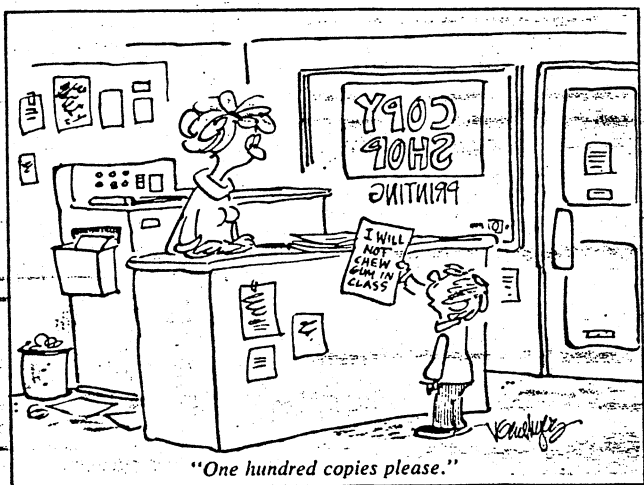

Youth is not a term of years; it is a state of mind. To be young is to possess a spontaneity and flow of emotion, a liveliness of imagination, a potency of will. Youth means freshness in the depths of the spirit. Your body is as old as your arteries; your mind is as young as your own life's aspirations; and your mind is you.

You will not grow old by living long, but by the loss of interests, the lowering of ideals, and the waning of enthusiasms. Time wrinkles the skin, but moroseness and cynicism wrinkle the soul. They rob the spirit of vitality and doom it to decrepitude.

If there is in you a growing capacity for sweet wonder, an increasing appreciation of the beauty of the world, a rising enthusiasm for the challenge of events, a deepening desire for knowledge, a mounting gratitude for the tender mercies of God, you are surely and steadily growing young! You will be yonder next year than you are now.

You are as young as your hopes, as old as your fears; as young as your songs, as old as our sighs; as young as your raptures, as old as your rebellions; as young as your love, as old as your will to hate.

Not until your enthusiasms perish can you ever grow old.

spotlight

This month our Spotlight has fallen on Sharon Floria. She is a fairly new employee at Crown. She's been a part of Modules Department for the seven months she's been here. She became aware of Crown through Dave Stuber.

Sharon enjoys her job and is aiming towards a goal of learning more about and understanding the functions of the components and circuit boards that are produced in the modules department.

"The friends I've met here are very special and the work atmosphere is great". Sharon gives all praise to God for an exceptionally special person in her life right now, Bill Swihart, who is soon to become her husband.

Sharon is presently living in Wakarusa with her four children, ages 4 to 15. Some of her other interests besides her children are Bible study, singing, drawing, sewing, gardening.

My family and I would like to say thank you to all of you for the support and gifts that you've given during this time of our loss in the fire.

The testimony after the fire has gone many miles and touched unsaved hearts. My family, sister and brother, have been amazed at the help that has been given. They called to share with my mother who lives in California.

I would certainly not have prayed for such a thing, but we are much better off now than before. Satan meant this for evil, but God used it for good!

Deepest gratitude and love is felt for all of you. This is truly a family and I am privileged to be apart of it.

In Christ's Love,
Sharon Floria & children

NORMA MILLER (Line 6) will be among the many travelers over the Easter holiday. She is planning on going to Ohio.

LINDA WISLER's (Manuals) last day at Crown will be May 25. She will be moving to Indianapolis. Good luck, Linda!

Tech Service's JIM STEMBEL was on the road traveling for about a month.

DON PETERSON (Service) has a new baby daughter, Deanna Cathleen, weighing in at 7 lbs.

VERNE (Engr) and SHIRLEY (Line 5) will take a week off the first of April and hope to do some Spring cleaning.

Line 6 is trying to talk BILL MILLER into getting married.

Ebblen Korhonen (Line 4) is temporarily helping out in Modules.

DREW FRAILEY (Inspection) has had two hit-and-run incidents with his car in the last couple weeks. Think someone's out to get you, Drew?

PATTI PONTIUS (Parts) and family spent a weekend in North Carolina.

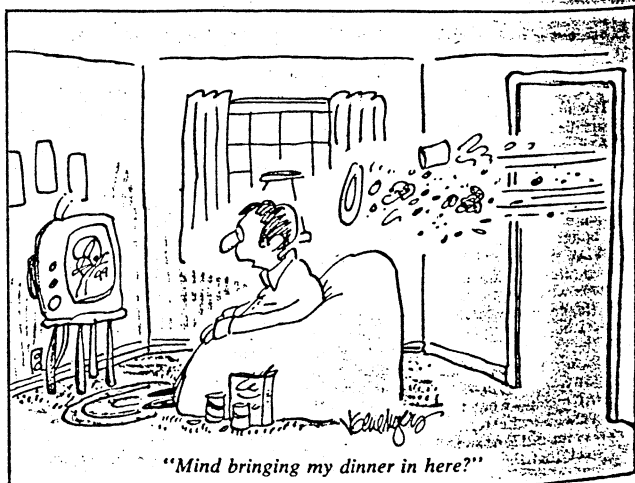

JENNY SCHIEBER (Stockroom) is still taking orders for the beautiful cloth frames she makes.

STEVE MYERS may possibly be out about a month after a knee operation.

JUNE (Line 2) and IKE will be vacationing for two weeks in April. They plan to visit Heritage USA in North Carolina and then venture on to Florida.

May 7 is a big day on the calendar for MARC MILLER (Specialty); he's getting married.

GENEVA MILLER (Customer Service) will be going on a three day retreat to Laurelville, PA.

BETTY MOHR (Lit Room) visited her son in Dallas, Texas for a week.

PAMM MALONE (Engr) is attending Ivy Tech in hopes of obtaining a technology degree.

BETTY MYERS (Line 5) is vacationing in Florida for a month.

CAROLYN LANDIS (Parts) has a new Toyota Corolla.

Line 6 went to Mark's Chinese Restaurant in celebration of Kathy Stout's birthday.

DAVE ENGSTROM (Tech Service) did a tech seminar for Picker International in Cleveland, Ohio.

EVELYN CLARK (Stockroom) has sold her house and will be moving to Florida the first of May.

VICKI WHITE (Modules) has adopted a six year old son in India through World Vision.

KAY PAMACHENA (Inspection) traveled to sunny Florida, but found it not so sunny.

Congratulations to BILL SWIHART (Stockroom) and SHARON FLORIA (Modules) on your engagement. A May 28 wedding is planned.

GREG PORTER (Line 1) is now on days.

The CROWN softball team is winding up for the season. Let's support our team.

DIANE LONG (Line 2) is getting a kitchen.

KEN BONTRAGER (Service) and family will be going to visit relatives in Florida next month.

CARLA LANCASTER (Engr), BECKY STUBER, STEVE PEER, KEN YODER (EDP) went to Atlanta, GA to the MRP II class a couple weeks ago. And Carla has gone back for another week of classes.

Talk about the big one that got away! STEVE MYERS accidentally hooked JOHN M. HARRIS in the head while out fishing. He was taken to Goshen Hospital where he was stitched up by CLAY BARCLAY.

BILL MILLER (Line 6) has his three bedroom house up for sale. It's located in Dunlap.

TECH SERVICE DEPT. will be conducting a technical seminar here next week with A.C. Simmonds our Canada representative.

Don't forget to sign up now for the bass and bluegill fishing contest that is to be held the 2nd Saturday in May.

Most people will agree with you if you'll just keep quiet.

SAUSAGE BREAD

1 pound of Italian sausage (browned & drained)
2 Cups Mozerella Cheese
Romano or Parmesan Cheese

Dough:

1 pkg yeast                      2 Tbsp. Salad oil
1 C. hot water                  1 Tbsp. salt (omit if using self-rising flour)
2 1/2 C flour

Mix well. Let rest while browning meat. Split in half and roll out into rectangular shape.

Place 1/2 of meat down middle of dough; sprinkle with Romano or Parmesan; add 1 cup of mozerella. Fold over twice, repeat with other 1/2 of dough. Place on cookie sheet and brush with yolk of egg. Cook until brown (30 min.) in 350° - 400° oven.

Can be frozen and reheated in micro-wave.

FROM THE KITCHEN OF: Peggy Curry

CARMEL CAKE

1 yellow cake mix ( bake as directed on back of box).

CARMEL ICING

1 1/2 C. white sugar              1 large size can Pet milk

Pour Pet milk and 1 C sugar in sauce pan, heat on low while browning 1/2 C sugar in skillet. Sugar may turn lumpy and syrupy when Pet milk mixture is hot. Pour in skillet with brown sugar, stir until thicken. Let cool about 5 minutes before spreading on cooled cake.

JELLIED EASTER EGGS

2 packages fruit-flavored gelatin              3 cups cold water
2 packages unflavored gelatin                  12 eggs
Candle

Stir fruit-flavored and unflavored gelatins together in saucepan, add water, stir to blend. Heat, stirring, until completely dissolved; set aside to cool. With a pin or fork tine, puncture a small hole in narrow end of egg; turn and puncture wide hole in broad end. Hold egg over bowl, put lips to small hole, blow egg out of shell and into bowl. Reserve eggs to scramble, make omelets or cake. Wash shells with cold water. Blow all water out of shells. Light the candle and hold flame over smaller hole of each egg so the paraffin drips over it to seal the hole. Pour cooled gelatin into empty shells, using small funnel or spoon. Set eggs upright in carton; place in refrigerator for 3 hours or longer, until gelatin is well set. To remove, crack shells by rolling on table, then peel gently, first wetting hands to handle. Refrigerate jellied eggs. Serve on a nest of shredded carrots or cottage cheese, or serve with whipped cream. Or nibble as a snack. Makes 12 jellied eggs.

How I Learned to Talk Politics
by Dave McLaughlin

I have never felt at ease discussing political issues. For one thing, most people I have listened to have not bothered to understand much about the subject at hand. I did not see how I could possibly know less than they did, and knowing more did not seem to count. These conditions eliminated me from effective political conversation until just recently when the secrets of this kind of discourse suddenly fell open to my understanding like a watermelon hit with an axe.

The occasion of my enlightenment was a political speech on television that usurped a MASH rerun. Missing MASH was annoying, but after I watched the speech for a few minutes I decided to make the best of it and try to see how the man operated. My observations after a half-hour amazed me for their simplicity.

The speaker was a masterful politician, although he seemed otherwise to lack interesting or useful items of character. His speech followed this pattern:

(1) He always pretended to be interested in the people listening. He worked at this by looking soulfully into the camera and smiling a lot. His voting record and personal conduct when not making speeches suggested that he was actually rafting through life without noticing much but himself, his personal prosperity, and his tie color.

(2) In the course of his speech, this man set up two contradictory positions and never bothered to discredit either one.

(3) Also in the course of his speech, he said, "analysis", "the people", "charisma", "tough", "brilliant", "honest", "absolute", "fundamental", "reality", and several other words about ten times more frequently than anyone would have in ordinary conversation. Furthermore he did not swear, which I had heard that he did in ordinary conversation.

Except for these three distinguishing characteristics, the speech was no more entertaining than a grocery list or a sermon.

I had to try this out. A friend of mine who liked to talk about political stuff appeared at a social event I attended a few days later. Remembering my newly discovered rules before he could get his lips up to cruising speed, I shredded his political commentary with the following interjection (looking as sincerely as I could directly into his eyes): "I am convinced that a careful analysis of historical precedent and the New York Times editorial page will demonstrate that both a balanced budget and large government deficits are absolute fiscal necessities. The people objugate those leaders who engage in the kind of irresponsible overspending that has gone on. No amount of political charisma can outweigh this imposing reality. At the same time, the most brilliant and objective political minds have indicated the absolute need for increased government intervention to ease the burden on the poor, the halt, and the lame."

Here I had to stop for a few seconds since I was talking faster than I was breathing, and was starting to get dizzy. My friend was staring at me in shock; he had never heard me talk like this. I was pretty pleased myself except for the lack of oxygen. I went on.

"Any honest analysis will have to support these conclusions, and anyone claiming to represent the interests of the people while ignoring these fundamental realities will be thrown out of office."

"That's tough, isn't it?" I finished as I remembered the last of the words I had wanted to slip into the conversation. It did not fit in at all, but I was new at this and wanted to use all of the political words I could.

After this inspired piece of elocution (I looked this up - it means, "Developing a great wind in public, especially from the mouth") my companion could only nod his head in agreement. He did not nod vigorously - he had not understood what I had said. For that matter, I had not understood much of it either, but of course I had not planned to. This was political discussion, not cooking school.

I realized I had gotten the upper hand in my first real political discussion. The discussee no longer had a clear view of anything we had covered, and was trying to remember what color his car was so he could leave.

Who knows where all of this will lead? I have never wanted to live in the White House and give up playing racquetball at the Y. It is easy to see how so many people could want to do that, though, now that I see how easily the basic skills can be learned. Of course, political skills do not qualify a person for any useful work, so I urge you to be careful how you use what I have just revealed to you. I would not have shared this if I did not trust your discretion.

LIVE THIS EASTER

Never forget that Easter is eternal!

Never forget that Easter goes far beyond the words of a hymn, the pleasure of an Easter greeting, the joy of flowers, and new fashions.

Easter means faith, hope, new life. We have always known that. But today it's important, all-important, that we don't merely know its meaning. We must live its meaning.

By planting the faith and hope of Easter in our hearts, by living Easter . . . we shall realize the sooner the new life, the new world, that we and all people everywhere are awaiting.

There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling;
One Lord, one faith, one baptism,
One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.

Even though there are 15 letters in Kate's name, I wish there were more. For instance, there is no "C" and I know she is a Christian and a wonderful Cook. "B" is missing and Bremen is her hometown, Bake goods her specialty and she would never miss the Boston Celtics. If we could add a "D" we could list Decorations -- Kate always had her office decorated to fit the current season. I could have used a couple "S"'s -- Sunday School teacher and now Secretary to her church -- Community Gospel in Bremen. "N" for Notre Dame is a letter, I'm sure Kate would appreciate. Last, but certainly not least, I would like to add "F" for Friend. Yes, Kate is a very good friend whom I have learned to know and appreciate. She will be missed by her fellow workers. May God's blessings go with her as she begins her new job.
